- 2. The Debtor elected to file a short year May 30, 2009 income tax return under his social security number as allowed under IRC Section 1398. The Debtor also appears to have properly included all post-petition earnings from his insurance brokerage business in 2010 and 2011 Chapter 11 bankruptcy estate tax returns until conversion on September 6, 2011 using a separate bankruptcy estate federal identification number. The Bankruptcy Code requires that all earnings of the Debtor in a chapter eleven proceeding are property and earnings of the chapter eleven bankruptcy estate, not the individual Debtor separate and apart from his chapter eleven estate.
- 3. The Internal Revenue Service has indicated that the 2010 and 2011 bankruptcy estate tax returns have been filed and all tax liabilities paid in full. No claim has been filed for the bankruptcy estate under its separate federal identification number. See Declaration of Michael Gabrielson ("Gabrielson Declaration").
- 4. The Internal Revenue Service filed Claim 19 for perceived administrative taxes against the debtor under his social security number for the periods May 30, 2009 and calendar years 2010, 2011 and 2012.

REASONS FOR OBJECTION

First: The claim includes the short year ended May 30, 2009 tax liability which is a priority pre-petition tax claim, not an administrative claim of the Chapter 11 estate. This amount should be re-characterized as a pre-petition claim.

Second: The claim includes a tax liability for the calendar tax year 2012, a tax period occurring after the case was converted to chapter seven on September 6, 2011. Any personal tax liability for the Debtor under his social security number after September 6, 2011 would be taxes on income belonging to the debtor, not the Chapter 7 bankruptcy estate.

Third: The 2010 and 2011 tax assessments on the claim represent an erroneous double taxation of insurance brokerage income already included in properly filed 2010 and 2011 bankruptcy estate tax returns under the separate estate federal identification number.

The Bankruptcy Unit of the Internal Revenue Service has confirmed that the 2010 and 2011 taxes per their claim are based on the same Forms 1099 for debtor's insurance brokerage business which were included in the bankruptcy estate tax returns under the separate federal identification number. While it is possible the Forms 1099 incorrectly used the Debtor's social security number, this was factually income of the bankruptcy estate required to be reflected on bankruptcy tax returns, not personal income of the debtor separate and apart from his chapter eleven bankruptcy estate. No separate personal tax returns have been filed by the Debtor under his social security number which would explain the amounts included in this claim. See Gabrielson Declaration. Accordingly, the Trustee objects to this claim in any amount. DATED: November 11, 2013 STROMSHEIM & ASSOCIATES By /s/ Reidun Strømsheim ATTORNEYS FOR CAROL W. WU, TRUSTEE
